Summerhouse complaints seem to be coming from a limited number of people, spurred by even fewer who are misrepresenting the project. When people have the facts, they are relieved and even supportive. I think we should proceed as planned and continue to educate.

Just like the mall in 1999, GOHS near the casino, Old Town improvements, the water park, the hospital, lights at Temeku Hills Park, and everything else we've done that is good, people are resistant to change. As with the aforementioned projects, when completed, Summerhouse will be beautiful, safe, and a great neighbor. The complaints will evaporate into vapor.

I agree that we should stay the course, remain focused, and continue to educate.

It is unfortunate this is turning into a circus with the premature announcement of this project before it even was an official project at the Rancho Community Church services several months ago. While it was a bad decision by some to use this as a political gain for them, we have to move past that and get focused on how we best try to turn this around before it gets worse. People are angry, something I have not seen in years and it appears to be building further.

We now have two major issues to face and I would recommend we focus on the Hospital issue in the next two days, get that out of the way and then immediately start to work on the Summerhouse issues. We all know Summerhouse is a great project but we have to turn this around somehow before the public hearing next month.

I'm available as a Summerhouse subcommittee member to meet whenever Chuck is available. I'm sure after tonight's meeting, the press will be hounding us for comments. We need to be united in our responses.
